Coal Question Compels Suspension Of Spa Negotiations

Dr. Von Simons Suggests Silesian Plebescite Be Abandoned

ALLIES ARE FIRM

Reparation Committee To Examine German Books And Make Report

(Reuter's Service)

Spa, July 13.—Failure on the part of the Germans to satisfy the Allies regarding reparations led to a dramatic development today when the Conference was suspended and Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson urgently summoned to Spa.

The following official communique on the situation was issued this evening:

"At the Conference today, Dr. von Simons declared that serious difficulties faced the German Government with regard to delivering greater coal tonnage until the Government had obtained owners' and miners' assent to increase the output.

"He submitted German proposals for delivery of 56,000 tons per working day from next October and 68,000 per working day from Oct. 1921, conditionally on the possibility of improving the feeding and housing of workmen.

URGES ABANDONMENT

"With regard to the position in Upper Silesia, Dr. von Simons contended that the Allies' coal demands could be better satisfied if the plebiscite there were abandoned and mining agreements with the Poles and Bohemians substituted.

The President of the Conference, M. Delacroix, on behalf of the Allies, expressed deep disappointment and said that the German reply created a grave situation.

"M. Delacroix reminded Dr. von Simons that the Reparations Commission had already reduced the treaty provisions with regard to coal from three and a quarter million tons to two million four hundred thousand tons a month, and of the Allies' manifest willingness still to hear the German explanations and offers.

CAUCUS SUSPENDED

"In view of the German Government's attitude, which took into account neither the treaty nor the Reparations Commission's program and made totally inadequate offers, M. Delacroix announced that the Conference would be suspended to enable the Allies to examine the situation."

The communique concludes: "Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson have been summoned to Spa for matters of extreme urgency."

SESSIONS RESUMED

Spa, July 12.—The Conference this morning decided to continue, as it was impossible to finish today. It also decided to refer the German reparations proposals to the Reparations Commission and the German and Allied experts for examination and report. The Conference is expected to conclude on July 16.

WILL "RECONSIDER"

Spa, July 12.—The following communique was issued this evening:

"The heads of the Allied delegation conferred with Herr Fehrenbach and Dr. von Simons for two hours with regard to the coal and reparations questions.

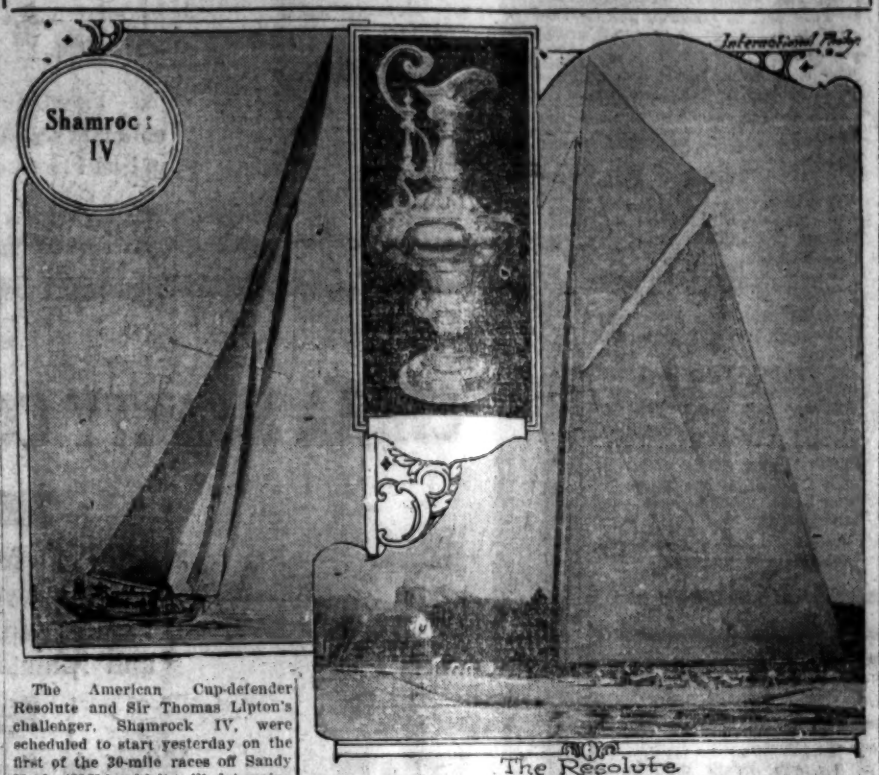
"With regard to the latter it was decided that the Reparations Committee should meet the Allied and German delegates and experts, examine the German plans and report to the Conference.

"The delegations exchanged proposals with regard to the tonnage of coal deliveries without result. It was therefore declared that the Reparations Committee's figures should be adhered to.

"The German delegation said that they would reconsider the question.

"The Allies spontaneously announced that, in consequence of information received with regard to the under-nourishment of German mine-workers, they were prepared to study the question of the improvement of their food position, and invited the German delegation to submit practical suggestions on the matter.

Resolute And Shamrock IV Start Trials



The American Cup-defender Resolute and Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV, were scheduled to start yesterday on the first of the 30-mile races off Sandy Hook (N.Y.) which will determine the 1920 yachting championship of the world.

Here are the two "whizzers" tuning up for the great international event. Shamrock has a greater sail-spread than Resolute—which means that the Lipton boat will have to give a 6-minute handicap.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 11.—The government has decided to prevent all excursion steamers, except a few ocean-going liners, from accompanying the competitors for the America's Cup, with the result that there is a scramble for places along the course. Destroyers will keep all ships half a mile from the race course.

The Shamrock's sail area is estimated at 11,400 square feet, as compared with the Resolute's 9,650 square feet, and it is believed that she will have to give the Resolute 6½ minutes on a thirty-mile course.

"The Poles also defeated the Bolshevist cavalry annihilating a brigade and capturing eight guns. The cavalry fled to Rovno, which the Poles are now attacking."

Late Lord Fisher Is Laid At Rest

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—Striking tributes to the memory of Lord Fisher were paid at the funeral ceremony today.

The metropolis has seldom witnessed a more impressive spectacle. Full naval honors were accorded. The route to Westminster Abbey was densely crowded with reverent spectators. The coffin, enveloped in a Union Jack, was borne on a gun-carriage drawn by blue-jackets.

Eight Admirals acted as pall bearers including Admiral Lord Jellicoe and Admiral Sir G. F. King Hall.

The funeral service at the Abbey was a very simple one. The congregation was representative of every phase of national life. The King and Queen Alexandra were represented.

BEGIN CRUSADE TO CHECK WILD MOTOR DRIVERS

Foreign residents of Shanghai have started a campaign to check the reckless driving of chauffeurs and mafoos who daily imperil the lives of pedestrians, ricsha occupants and motorists on the streets of Shanghai. Three chauffeurs were prosecuted in the Mixed Court yesterday for reckless driving and was fined $10 each by American Assessor Tenney, and Magistrate Yui. More severe penalties are threatened in the future.

In one case tried yesterday the chauffeur, heedless of the safety of passersby, drove at a rate of 20 miles an hour and with such recklessness that several ricshas were forced to the sidewalks to escape damage.

The foreigner promptly took the number of the car and prosecuted the case in the Mixed Court. This same gentleman pointed out yesterday that the only way in which traffic conditions here can be improved is by determined action by the foreign population. He mentioned that the Court co-operates in cases of the kind by placing them first on the docket and that ten minutes time will be the only sacrifice necessary when a case of reckless driving in reported.

No undue publicity will attach to such cases as the names of the complaining witnesses need not necessarily be made public, the object of the crusade being to abate an evil rather than to promote sensationalism.

Typhoon Headed In Shanghai Direction Changes Its Course

Warning Gun Is Sounded And Small Craft Leave River For Creek Harbor

Small craft scurried for shelter in Soochow Creek from their anchorage in the Whangpoo River yesterday afternoon when a warning gun was fired and typhoon signals were flown. But the danger, it was believed was passed at 9:15 o'clock last night when word was received that the storm had switched its course, 15 miles off shore, and would not touch this port.

In the meantime a brisk breeze had been blowing, the air was murky and there was a general feeling of apprehension apparent throughout the community. Not only the skippers of the sampans and junks made ready to combat the storm but the officers in command of the larger craft in the stream set double moorings and battened down in preparation for a heavy blow.

Relief was evident along the waterfront when the signal lights were changed showing that the danger had passed but there was still some apprehension in shipping circles over the fate of vessels believed to be at sea and in the path of the typhoon.

Parliaments And Tuan Must Go; Punish Anfu Heads, Bodies Demand

Twelve Local Organisations Enumerate Traitrous Acts Of Notorious Political Clique And Ask Government To Get Rid Of Them

Punish the Anfu ringleaders in accordance with law, strip Tuan of his military power and dissolve both the new and old Parliaments.

These are the three terse demands addressed to Peking yesterday by 12 local organisations.

The message, while non-committal as to the attitude towards the Chihli militarists, brands the Anfuites as traitors.

The message follows:

"The Chinese nation has been in a chaotic condition, giving the Anfu Club the chance of usurping the administrative power and plundering the national resources by offering them as securities for foreign loans. These moneys are utilised for the private expenditure of their clique and for the personal power of its members.

PLUNDER RECORD

"All the legislative, judicial, financial and communications bureaus were placed under their control, the Anfuites are able to harvest all the important national revenues for the purpose of recruiting members, tampering with justice and interfering with the free expression of public opinion.

"The acts of the Anfu Club have grieved the people immensely because they have shook the very foundation of our nation. Although our foreign friends are sincere in their desire to help us in our forward movements, they are unable to do so. Although our people are given our rights in the Constitution, we are unable to exercise them.

TUAN IS TOOL

"Of late, the Anfuites again have prompted Tuan Chi-jui to resort to warfare in the metropolitan area. The former hero of the monarchist [illegible]

"We as citizens of the Republic are bound to exercise our rights as given us by the Constitution and present our views during this critical moment.

"The new Parliament is illegal. The old Parliament should long since have held a re-election as its term has expired. The recent split among its own ranks and flies further justifies its extinction as the body is no longer representative of public will.

TO TRY ANFUITES

"A special court of law should at once be organised to try the ringleaders of the Anfu Club, such as Little Hsu, Tseng Yu-tsing and Chu Shen who should punished with the full rigidity of the law. Tuan Chi-jui might be spared for his merits in guarding the Republic from the hands of the monarchists. But he should at once be deprived of his military power so that he may not be made the tool of traitors again.

"In a word, the recent distressing conditions have been brought about by the so-called mediators, who never were in a position to judge the right and the wrong of a fracas, thus giving the traitors a chance to carry on their intrigue unscrupulously. If the Government again refrains from punishing them in accordance with law to satisfy the public, the fall of the nation is in sight."

The organisations which sent the message were:

Kiangsu Educational Association, Shanghai City Chamber of Commerce, Chamber of Commerce of Nantungchow, Chungmin, and Haimen, Chinese Cotton Mill Owners' Association, Iron Merchants' Association, Shanghai Educational Association, World's Chinese Students' Federation, Shanghai Western Returned Students' Union, Paoshan Educational Association, National Association of Vocational Education of China, Chinese Overseas Federation and Shanghai Fire Brigade Association.

MORE CONDEMNATION

Another message was sent to President Hsu and the Cabinet yesterday by 115 other local organisations, led by the Canton and Ningpo Guilds, the Commercial Federation and the Federated Street Unions, which spoke in the same censorious vein.

A translation of the message follows:

"The [illegible] and the South [illegible] the origination of all this trouble and suffering in the Anfu Club, [illegible] foreign money and using armed forces to stir up internal strife, much to the detriment of the country and the agony of the people. Every citizen is indignant and angry!

"We hope that you will dissolve the Anfu Clique and punish its officials, whether they still be in government service or not. By doing this you will be meeting the wishes of the people and putting an end to all the internal quarrels.

"We citizens hereby swear that we will not recognise any loans concluded by the said clique, whether they be domestic or foreign.

"We trust you will heed the voice of the people."

Japanese Deny Clash With China At Nikolaievsk

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 14.—The Foreign Office states that there is no foundation for the charges, published in the Chinese press, that a Japanese warship at Nikolaievsk is detaining Chinese gunboats and obstructing Chinese activities there.

On the contrary, the Foreign Office statement continues, according to official reports, the Japanese are extending the greatest possible facilities to the Chinese and supplying provisions to the Chinese gunboats, and the Consulate is affording facilities for forwarding consignments despatched to the Chinese Government, and for the passage of relief ships.

Sky Instruments Returning To China

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 14.—The famous astronomical instruments, removed from Peking by the Germans, have reached Holland en route for Peking.

Officials here are perturbed as to whether the acceptance of these instruments involves recognition of the German peace treaty, which China has not yet signed.

The fact that the Germans offered to restore the instruments prior to the framing of the Versailles Treaty is eagerly grasped at as a feature, freeing China from this chimerical difficulty.

It has been pointed out by the local enthusiasts that this is the first time China will have been able to show her gratitude to the American legislators since they rejected the Shantung clause and finally, the entire German Peace Treaty; and that no efforts should be spared in giving representatives a hearty welcome throughout China.

BRITISH TIMBER TO BE PROTECTED

Conference Plans Institute For Teaching Knowledge Of Forestration

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—The British Empire Forestry Conference continued today. Sir Claude Hill, Revenue Member of the Viceroy's Council, introduced the subject of forestry education and research.

There was general agreement that whatever was practicable in these subjects should be proceeded with, side by side, both in the various portions of the Empire and, centrally, in Great Britain.

A proposal that the central research for the Empire for the investigation of the fundamental problems of forestry should be conducted in Great Britain received the support of the committee.

POST-GRADUATE STUDY

Emphasis was laid upon the desirability of providing such post-graduate study, training and special tuition as was demanded by the needs of the Empire.

In order to meet the requirements of parts of the Empire which have no University training in the higher branches of forestry, it was considered that the same Central Institute would be a suitable training center.

The question of collecting and exchanging seed between the different parts of the Empire was discussed and the importance of co-operation emphasised.

HSU'S PEACE MANDATE IS IGNORED BY ANFU CHIEF

Marshal Orders Attack Despite Attempt To Pacify Both

BUT WITHDRAWS

Sudden Appearance Of Wu Pei-fu's Forces Scares War Lord

CHANG AFTER HIM

Discovery Of Anfuite Plot Enrages Mukden Chief

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, July 14.—The Presidential mandate ordering the cessation of hostilities was issued today. All sides are ordered to return to their original positions. It is pointed out, however, that General Wu Pei-fu's position is in Chihli, from whence he went to Honan two years ago under Government orders.

The effect on Wu, therefore, is doubtful. General Chang Tso-lin's troops are nearing Tientsin, and it is reported that Chang Hsun, the notorious monarchist, is in command.

The question of peace or war now depends on the next move of Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 14.—Martial law was proclaimed in Peking this evening.

CHANG SENDS TROOPS

Peking, July 14.—The armed mediation, with which General Chang Tso-lin threatened Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, is apparently developing, for the arrival of two Fengtien brigades at Chunlincheng today is reported.

General Chang Tso-lin has sent a telegram to the President, informing him that, on his return to Mukden, he discovered that Marshal Tuan Chi-jui had sent agents with $200,000 to suborn the Hunghutzes to create trouble in Manchuria.

Another telegram from General Chang Tso-lin, which is couched in very strong language, casts reflections on Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and indicates the former's intention to take a leading part in solving the Peking problem.

TUAN ORDERS ATTACK

Peking, July 14.—Almost simultaneously with the issue of the mandate forbidding hostilities, it is reported that Marshal Tuan Chi-jui has ordered the Frontier forces to attack this evening and that the approach of General Wu Pei-fu's forces in the direction of Tuanho has caused Tuan to withdraw to Peking.

The Presidential mandate says: "Since the inauguration of the Republic, the people have suffered extremely from internal strife. Commerce and industry are disorganised, the people are greatly excited, and it is impossible for them to pursue an even course of existence.

"DESIRED PEACE"

"I have always desired peace. Fortunately, recently actual fighting has considerably decreased, and merchants and workers have enjoyed a certain measure of safety, but owing to the failure to secure unification, normal conditions have not been restored.

"This year famine and flood visited Kiangsu and Chekiang, while drought threatens the vicinity of the capital. Prices of grain have risen and rumors of trouble in this connection are being widely circulated. Recently troops were moved in various directions as a consequence of misunderstandings, and the inhabitants of the regions through which the troops passed or in which they were stationed were thrown into great terror: for how can they provide sustenance for soldiery in time of famine?

OFFERS THEM ADVICE

"The people have entrusted me with the safeguarding of their welfare, to which I have given my whole attention. Though looking on the commanders of the various forces as brothers and sons, in whose good intentions I possess confidence, I deem it my duty to offer them advice.

"After the issue of this mandate, the troops in various directions must be withdrawn to their original stations, with a view to maintaining peace in co-operation."

COMPROMISE EXPECTED

With regard to the report that Marshal Tuan Chi-jui has ordered hostilities, official circles believe a compromise will be reached. The most important obstacle to a compromise is General Tsao Kun's insistence that the Frontier troops should be sent to the frontiers, which carries the position back to the day when General Hsu Shu-tseng was dismissed and would entail the defeat of the Anfu Club.

There is no doubt that the moment is approaching when Marshal Tuan Chi-jui must choose between taking the field or seeking sanctuary at a friendly Legation. His withdrawal from Tuan-ho on the approach of General Wu Pei-fu's forces, a detachment of whom is now 20 li from Tuanho, does not correspond to his reported intention to fight, while the reports that he is endeavoring to purchase the German bank at Peking give a certain point to the issue of the Mandate.

OFFICERS RETURN

The group of officers who were sent to Tientsin yesterday, failing to secure an interview with the Civil Governor Tsao Jui, deemed it futile to proceed to Paotingfu and returned to Peking last night.

From Tsinanfu it is reported that an agreement has been reached whereby the 2nd Frontier division will remain at Tsinanfu.

Reports from the fronts state that General Wu Pei-fu's men are alert and keen, while the Anfuites are quite the reverse. This is largely due to the fact that General Wu Pei-fu has succeeded in establishing a cause which appeals to the soldiers and the people, while the Anfuites have none.

NO MONARCHY

In their extremity the Anfuites have fallen back on the old slogan and are spreading rumors that they are willing to make peace providing they receive assurance that the Chihlilites do not intend to restore the monarchy.

The Chihlilites ridicule this as obvious propaganda and wholly without foundation. This rumor recently reached the Manchu ex-Imperial family who sent an emissary to the Chihli leaders imploring them not to imperil the lives of the Manchus by futile attempts at restoration. On being clearly informed that no such intention prevailed, the emissary returned happily to the Palace.

SKEKING DEPOSITORY

(China Press' Correspondence)

Hankow, July 14.—General Chang Ching-yao is rumored to be seeking foreign protection for a large quantity of dollars.

Visitors to Chikungshan are finding much difficulty and inconvenience in traveling by the railway.

Numbers of Generals are expected in Hankow shortly including two Northern, two Southern and two neutral officers, with their army divisions.

It is reported that the neutral forces were disarmed on Saturday.

PEKING TIED UP

Martial law in Peking, according to other reports, was proclaimed on Tuesday. By 6 o'clock in the evening all communications in the metropolis were stopped. Prominent residents of the capital have protested against the use of arms by the militaristic factions and petitioned Old Hsu to prevent a clash.

A military conference is being called at Mukden to formulate plans of aiding the Chihli warriors. Chang Tso-lin resents the cold hand extended to him during his visit to Peking by Tuan, and has decided to get even. Chang, perhaps better than any other militarist, knows the tactics of Tuan. Today he has a chance to crush him and step into his shoes.

Among those attending the conference are Tuchun Sun Li-chen of Heilungkiang; Tuchun Pao Kwei-chng of Kirin; General Ma Lung-piao, commander of the Northeastern Border Defense Army; and Generals Wu Tsing-shun and Chi Ching-chen, in command of the 28th and 29th divisions.

MUKDEN IS MARTIALLED

Martial law has also been proclaimed in Mukden. It is reported that a number of assassins have been sent by the Anfu Club to take the life of the Mukden chief, Chang Tso-lin, whose last message contained definite intimations that the Anfuites were in the wrong and that, if they continued to take up arms against the Chihli forces, he would side with the latter.

Chang has four divisions of troops ready to be marched to Peking; while Tsao Kun has five.

Chang has captured four agents, sent to Manchuria by Tuan to promote brigandage, in order to prevent him from taking an active part in the present crisis. The sum of $120,000 was found on the persons of the agents.

TUAN ASKS COMPROMISE

On the other hand, Tuan Chi-jui, disheartened and helpless because of the refusal of the Border Defense Army to back him up, is now appealing to Chang Tso-lin for a compromise, to save his face. He has delegated Chin Yung-peng to present Chang with an autographed letter, making concessions.

Tuan hopes that Chang will stand neutral; although, from all present indications, he is pro-Chihli. Tuan is not afraid of him alone, but is afraid of him because of his Japanese support, which Tuan himself found to be effective in his oppression of the South.

The Marshal knows that, if he succeeds in keeping Chang aloof from the political muddle, it will be easy to handle the Chihli leaders. All he needs is time to negotiate another loan from the Japanese financial gang in Peking, to whom Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu have no access; at least for the present.

NO FIGHTING

Fighting there will be none. Give Tuan a month to hold out and Tsao and Wu will be defeated; not by Tuan's force of arms, but by Japanese money.

If Tsao beleagues himself with Chang Tso-lin as he does now, Tsao will soon get Japanese money, too. Then it will be a question of the pleasure of Tokio as to who should win this battle.

The British Legation has requested the Peking Administration not to make use of British airplanes in the present conflict. As practically all the machines are of British make, none could be used, if the request is complied with.

The new Consortium has advanced $5,500,000 (Mex) to Peking.

GENERALS PROTEST

In a lengthy correspondence to the Peking and Tientsin Times, Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu vigorously protested against the action of the Italian Legation in supplying arms, munitions and airplanes to Tuan.

They unmercifully rapped the Italians, enumerating the various lots of contrabands supplied on different dates. They say that they have conclusive proofs that Italy proposed to dump her scrap arms into Peking during the present strike.

The remnants of the Canton military administration are throwing their lot with the Chihli faction, in the hope of allying themselves against the Constitutional leaders in Shanghai, who are reported to be in league with the Tuan and Anfu faction.

HAS FOUR PLANS

Canton has the following four plans to win the good will of the Chihli clique; (1) to order Tan Yen-kai to despatch troops to Wuchang and Hankow to re-inforce Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan; (2) to befriend Chen Chun-ming and defy Li Hao-chi, Anfu Tuchun of Fukien; (3) to order General Li Tien-chai and General Lai Tien-wei to attack Wu Kwan-hsin, the brother-in-law of Tuan (4) and to request Tuchun Chen Kwan-yuan to attack Ni Shih-chun, the Anhui Tuchun, promising him the assistance of the Kwangsi troops.

How much Canton is able to carry out the plans remains to be seen. At present, it seems there is little chance of Canton's order to go beyond its own threshold.

California Glee Singers All From Golden State

Although students of fifty-two nationalities and hundreds of students from every state in the Union attend the University of California, every one of the twenty-one boys coming to Shanghai with the U. C. Glee Club Sunday is a resident of the Golden State. The college entertainers come from all over California—from Northernmost Eureka to sunny San Diego.

The Glee Club boys, who open a five-night engagement at the Olympic Theater on Sunday, represent the best of musical talent of America's largest university. Out of 10,300 students at the University of California, 400 are tried out each year for membership in the Glee Club. From this number, 60 are chosen. These 60 were again forced into competition when the Oriental Tour was announced, and only the most versatile and talented were picked.

These twenty college musicians have been singing their way into the hearts of people throughout the Orient for the past month, and will be in the Far East for a month more. After their stay in Shanghai, they hope to go north to Tientsin and Peking, if conditions permit, returning to Japan in time to sail from Yokohama on August 10. They plan to arrive in Berkeley, ready to resume their college work on August 28.

The personnel of the Glee Club, with the class, home, and fraternity of each member, follows:

So Crisp

—and Delicious, too!

There are definite reasons why the New Post Toasties are vastly superior in crispness and flavour to any other corn flakes.

In the new process of baking, intense heat raises tiny air "puffs" on each flake, bringing out a decidedly new and delicious flavour—the true flavour of the corn—unknown to the corn flakes of the past.

Owing to this new process the New Toasties maintain their crispness untill eaten and do not grow soft and mushy in the bowl like other corn flakes.

The flavour is so delightfully pleasant that the New Post Toasties may be eaten and relished dry, though of course they are generally served with cream, rich milk, or fruit with a sprinkling of sugar.

Suppose you try the

DR. WILLOUGHBY VISITS SHANGHAI

American Educator And Writer Was Former Adviser To Chinese Government

Dr. W. W. Willoughby of the department of political science of Johns Hopkins University, noted American educator and author who was formerly legal adviser to the Chinese Government, is passing through Shanghai with his daughter, Miss Laura Willoughby, and after a visit to the capital to renew acquaintances will return to America in September.

Doctor Willoughby came to Shanghai from Hongkong after a stay in the Philippines where he said he went to "study conditions." He remarked yesterday that his present trip is without official significance in any way and was taken with the purpose of sight-seeing and of renewing his study of conditions in the Far East.

SILENT ON ISLANDS

He was unwilling to voice any conclusions concerning what he found in the Philippines. It may be mentioned that Doctor Willoughby is said to be high in the councils of the administration at Washington where recently the question of granting independence to the Philippines again has been receiving much attention.

A work of peculiar interest in China and the Far East, written by Doctor Willoughby, is "Foreign Rights and Interests in China." Lately it has been receiving considerable attention. He said yesterday that in this work he had kept away from political questions and conditions and added that he had in mind another work in which these may be taken up.

The time of Doctor Willoughby's departure for Peking, he said, is dependent on transportation conditions over the rail lines from here north.

Kansas City Miss Offers To Make Trip To Mars In Rocket

Miss Ruth Phillips, of Kansas City, has volunteered to accompany Captain Claude R. Collins, president of the Aviators' Club of Pennsylvania, on his proposed trip to Mars in a rocket, should the latter attempt the dangerous feat. Captain Collins's only stipulation is that communication with the planet be established and the feasibility of the plan be approved by scientists.

On the right is a diagram of the proposed rocket which, it is said, could make the great distance. Near the nose of the rocket is planned an oxygen compartment which will house the daring travelers during the trip. The diagram explains the motive power of the gigantic rocket.

H. C. Of L. Takes Count When Squeezing Houseboy Leaves, Court Is Told

Solution of the high cost of living which has been a bugaboo in the Far East for the last few years has been discovered by Mr. R. A. Nicholls, an American living at 54 Temple Road, he told the Mixed Court yesterday.

"Discharge your houseboy when the squeeze gets too high," is the sovereign remedy offered by Mr. Nicholls. And he explained:

"I discovered that my houseboy was practicing squeeze and so I fired him. Within 30 days my living expenses were reduced 40 percent."

The houseboy objected to being discharged and, according to the story told by the cook of the household threatened that individual with dire consequences if he did not pay cumshaw to him and a party of eight of his friends. The cook objected and told his master who told the police and the nine men were arrested. Then, said the cook, his efforts to reduce the high cost of living were rewarded by a threat from two other Chinese whose identity was not disclosed, if he dare go into court as a witness.

COOK ADMITS SQUEEZE

"We did a little squeeze," blandly admitted the cook, "but the master didn't know it although sometimes the mistress went to market and got things at cheaper prices than those we charged."

The court admonished the accused men and ordered that the houseboy furnish security for his good behavior.

Messrs. Haskell and McKean appeared for three of the defendants and Mr. Davies for the prosecution.

In his testimony Mr. Nicholls said:

"The complainant is my cook. The first accused is my former houseboy and was in my employ off and on from 1917 to May 15 when I discharged him. I was satisfied he was making squeeze. I know he stole food and coal and thought it time to get rid of him.

"After he left my employ my household expenses decreased 40 percent.

"A day or two after I discharged the boy the cook came to me and said that friends of the accused had threatened him with harm if he stayed on the job and did not pay the boy $40.

"The boy thought he was discharged because of something the cook had said about him but that was not so.

POLICE ARE CALLED

"I was in Nanking on July 4 and on my return the cook said he had been assaulted by the third accused, a chauffeur, and had been made to pay $20. The chauffeur, he said, told him that he was making plenty of squeeze and could afford to pay the sum to save his face.

"The police decided to have the cook make an appointment with the men involved and pass them marked money. But as he offered only $17 the men refused to accept the sum and demanded the full amount of $20.

"On the next day I received a letter, in the boy's handwriting, accusing the cook of the things with which I charge the boy."

On cross-examination by Mr. Haskell the witness said the best evidence to his mind that the boy had done the things he was accused of was that as soon as he left the Nicholls household the bills dropped 40 percent.

"And, too," he added, "I found coffee and other things in the boy's room."

"SHOOTING OFF HIS FACE"

In reply to a question the witnesses said:

"Of course the cook shared the squeeze; what Chinese would not?"

Mr. Nicholls was asked if he had struck the boy. He replied:

"I struck him. He was shooting off his face and I gave him a good one. I was too darned easy with him."

Mr. Davies wanted to know what the boy had said and the witness answered:

"He started to tell me the cook was rotten."

The houseboy denied any attempt at extortion and told the story of a feast in which the cook was supposed to share the expense.

"I introduced the cook to the job and we should have left together," he asserted.

"Picture Brides" Sent To America Not Violating Law

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 14.—The Foreign Office today publishes an explanation of the San Francisco press reports that fifty "picture-brides," were due to arrive in San Francisco on July 16, which were received with surprise, in view of the recent engagement of the Japanese Government.

The Foreign Office, however, explains that this engagement did not prohibit the departure of these "picture-brides" after February, but stopped the issuance of passports after that date.

As the passports are good for six months, it is expected that some of the brides will be going to America as late as the end of August. This point, the Foreign Office adds, has been clearly explained to the American Government.

Arab Uprising Subject Of Speech

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. W. G. A. Ormesby-Gore, Mr. Winston Churchill stated that the Arabs on July 2 attacked the Government buildings at Rumaila on the Eurphrates, killed the Arab guard and cut the railway. Reinforcements were sent from Basra.

A small column sent out to Rumaila suffered heavy casualties owing to the cutting of the canal and was unable to reach the town. Further reinforcements had been sent from Bagdad.

Punitive measures were being taken by the troops and air force. The rising appeared to be of a local character and was probably due to religious agitation.

The immediate cause was the civil authorities arresting local sheiks who had been inciting the tribesmen to rebel. The garrison at Rumaila was still holding out. Columns had been sent from Bagdad to assist it.

Inspector Burnside Returns From Leave

Inspector J. Burnside has returned to Shanghai after long leave at home and has taken charge of the detective department of the Shanghai Municipal Police as acting director of criminal intelligence. He is filling the office of Director William Armstrong who is now on his way home on leave.

Inspector Burnside made his home journey through the United States and returned by way of Canada. He said yesterday that his vacation was somewhat marred by the fact that he encountered adverse weather conditions most of the time during his absence and that he was very glad to be back in Shanghai.

BET 600,000,000 FRANCS

French Wagers on Horse Races Likely to be Exceeded

Paris, June 2.—Six hundred million francs were bet on horse races in France in 1919, and it is estimated that the total bets on the courses this year will be more than 7,000,000,000f.

The Government receives a percentage from the betting, which is on the parimutuels plan, and it is the Government report which shows that at Longchamps, Auteuil, Vincennes, Maisons-Lafitte, St. Cloud and Enghien 562,000,000f. were wagered last year, and the betting on the provincial tracks bring the total up to 600,000,000.

Of this sum the State received 53,000,000f. The tax, which was 8 percent, was raised to 10 percent last August and is about to be increased to 11 percent.

The race courses are now enjoying record prosperity, and because of the freedom with which the newly rich are betting, as well as because of the presence of many tourists, the knowing ones say that the 1920 betting will amount to more than 1,000,000,000f.

CARRANZA FLIGHT MARKED BY SCENE LIKE COMIC OPERA

Trains Carry Soldiers' Wives, Children And A Cage Of Lions

WOMEN WEEP, COOK, ROB

Story Of Tragic Yet Ludicrous Journey In Newspaper Man's Diary

Mexico City, May 28.—A diary written by Aldo Baroni, an Italian journalist, gives a vivid picture of the flight of President Carranza and his expedition of 10,000 persons from Mexico City in a vain effort to reach Vera Cruz in safety. It leads up to the moment when the word was passed in the expedition to "save yourselves who can," the trains were abandoned, Carranza bade Senor Baroni goodby and began the march into the hills which ended in his death.

FORESAW HIS FATE

The diary discloses the fact that Carranza evidently foresaw his end, for Senor Baroni quotes him as saying when he left the train to take refuge in the hills:

"You saw me start my first journey in 1913 and you will see my last in 1920."

Parts of the diary as published by El Universal read:

"I followed Don Venustiano when he left Saltillo in 1913 with 300 men in his heroic move against Huerta. Today I am leaving the capital with him to be, probably, a witness of his end. I am writing seated on a bag of rice in the Presidential supply car. The disorganisation which prevails in the station is terrible. Nobody has the power to organise anything. The expedition appears like one to Africa (referring to the enormous amount of baggage). I just saw in a cage the lions of Barragan that used to arouse the wonder of the bourgeoisie in the Paseo de la Reforma."

At Apizaco he recorded: "Word has passed that the last three trains have been lost. It appears that good luck is with Don Venustiano. The word 'treason' is on every lip. The citizens are jammed in the cars like sardines. Our march is like that of a horde of savages. The military trains are filled with soldiers, who have brought their children, domestic animals, dogs, chickens and parrots. Their women cause the greatest disorder. In the trains are more than 10,000 persons and of these more than 5,000 are women and children who wail, cry, cook, rob and impede progress.

"In front of the Presidential train is a luxurious Pullman buffet car, a symbol of disorganisation and immorality. A number of 'girls' elegantly dressed and a few elegant youths comment and wave from the windows. They appear like picnickers.

"We leave San Marcos at night with the lights out, for the enemy menaces the rearguard and flanks. The ill-will of the trainmen has been noticeable since we left Mexico City. Air hose has disappeared from some of the trains and without brakes they threaten to crash into the ones preceding them. Water is becoming scarce. There has been no military discipline since we left the capital. The troops are demoralised. The leaders act independently (Gen.). Murguia runs everything.

"The first shots break the morning stillness. On horseback followed by only one aid, Don Venustiano advances at a trot. The first wounded arrive. There are few medical supplies and the 'girls' of the feminine train offer their petticoats as bandages. Nobody had time to think of medical dressings, but the lions of Barragan were not forgotten.

"The President returns. He personally led forward the cavalry on the right flank when they began to retire. Murguia, has flanked the enemy and defeated him. Under a mesquite bush a deputy is roasting a chunk of red meat with great skill. Luis Cabrera is organising a battalion of civilians. 'All who have no arms step forward!' It resembles a scene from 'The Chocolate Soldier.' A prisoner is questioned. We learn that all Vera Cruz is in the power of the rebels. Candido Aguilar, almost alone, has fled to Zongolica.

"Murguia arrives amid cheers. The victorious troops parade. I see an order of the day captured from the enemy. In it Obregon orders that the trains be stopped but that the President, if he wills, be allowed to proceed to Vera Cruz with full guarantees and an escort.

"The trains proceed slowly. We arrive at Rinconada. Ten kilometers of trains wrapped in silence. There is no water. A living chain passes it from hand to hand to replenish the supply of a dead locomotive. Don Venustiano watches. Not a trace of the terrible battle which must be raging in his breast shows on his face. This man is made of rock.

"Carranza has statesmanlike qualities but one great defect. He does not know men. Capable, he is surrounded by incapables. Honest, he allows thieves at his side.

"I am aroused by a terrific squealing. Soldiers and civilians have sacked the Soledad ranch of 548 hogs. Soon the cars resemble butcher shops. I am told we are to continue our journey on foot. The water problem continues unsolved. Orders have been given to burn the records of the General Staff.

"An airplane is to fly over the enemy lines. It has gasoline for one hour. Santana (the aviator) returns. He tells me we are surrounded. The convoy is lost. Violent firing is resumed. The President's barber, burdened with arms and ammunition, explains how our artillery should be used. It would be enormously ridiculous if it were not so terribly tragic. The soldiers' women stoically continue cooking.

"Millan (General Augustin Millan, Governor of the State of Mexico) is brought back fatally shot through the head. Other wounded arrive. There are no doctors, no medicine.

"The final moment has come. The President has ordered the trains abandoned and the march to San Andres begun on foot. I have bid Carranza goodby. His smile was sad but his voice firm as he said: 'You saw me start my first journey in 1913 and you will see my last in 1920.'

"1 p.m.—Carranza returns from the front at a gallop. The firing is increasing. The first train is burning. The troops are scattering. Now a great silence.

"4.22 p.m.—A cloud of enemies arrives. I see my old friend General Jacinto Trevino. He is placing sentinels around the treasure train. At his feet, in a cage, the lion cubs of Barragan are knawing a bloody bone."

PARIS NIGHT LIFE AGAIN

Cafes And Restaurants Allowed To Stay Open Till 1 a.m.

Paris, June 1.—Tonight Paris recovers her pre-war liberty. Although they reserve the power to reimpose them, the authorities have at last removed the restrictions on the hours of the closing of cafes and restaurants. Theaters will close at 11:30, ballets at 12:30 and cafes and restaurants at 1 in the morning. It is not the full measure of liberty of the days before the war, but it is something, and scores of fetes and parties are being organised for tonight to celebrate the event. The concession is made as much to foreigners and tourists as to Parisians themselves. The latter are glad enough to recover this measure of freedom, but their main concern was that visitors to France were finding England and Spain livelier places, and after a tour of the front were cutting short their Paris sojourn. No one who came on a holiday wanted to be packed off to bed at 10 o'clock, with weekend permission to stay up till 11. To go to the theater, too, entailed a hurried dinner, for, in order to close at 11 the theaters had to begin early. Now one will be able to begin later and sup afterward, a pleasure which Paris has been a stranger to for six years.

The new order closely reflects the gradual change that is coming over the city. People are at last beginning to feel that the long period of half mourning is over, and that a return to normal pleasures is right and proper. The subdued feeling which the war brought is passing, and at the same time the complete defeat of all the revolutionary elements in the recent strike has removed the nightmare from which the country has long suffered.

HOW MUCH IS YOUR BABY WORTH?

You will surely reply, "He is worth to me, more than all the money in the world!" Such being the case you will be glad to know of a medicine which will help your baby's teething, enable him to sleep soundly, digest well and develop into a sturdy, healthy child. The name of this already well-known Canadian children's remedy is Baby's Own Tablets. Here is one endorsement out of many received. It comes from an American mother, Mrs. W. M. Stoddart, of East Brookfield, Vt., U.S.A., who writes:—"I have never found anything as good as Baby's Own Tablets for regulating the bowels of little children. My baby was sick and restless while cutting his teeth but the Tablets quickly made him all right."

Baby's Own Tablets are equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 years old or more. They are confidently recommended as a remedy for simple fever, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, croup, eczema, also to expel worms. From chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

News Brevities

Mr. Elly Widler of Ta Tsing Lu, Szechuen Province, brings to our notice a curious case of misleading nomenclature, which could only occur in China.

Ta Tsing Lu, a remote Szechuen town on the borders of Thibet, and incidentally the market for the whole of Eastern Thibet, has a post-office of the same name. Quite recently the name of the town has been changed to Kong Ting, which name has also been adopted by the telegraph office.

When sending a letter, therefore, the name is one thing and when sending a telegram another.

SECRETARY COLBY WON'T ADVISE ON IRISH QUESTIONS

Secretary Tells House Committee To Do As Its Judgment Dictates

NO DIPLOMATIC OBSTACLE

Consideration Of Proposal To Recognise Irish Republic Postponed

Washington, May 22.—Secretary Colby, invited to appear today before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in connection with its consideration of several resolutions pertaining to the freedom of Ireland, wrote Chairman Porter a letter in which he said that there was no diplomatic reason why the committee should not act as its conscience dictated on any of the pending resolutions, and added that it seemed hardly proper for him "to attempt to guide the action of the committee by an expression of opinion of legislation whims at this stage."

The chief resolution before the committee proposes recognition of the Irish Republic and sending an American representative to its Government.

Chairman Porter has tried to prevent any action on the resolutions, as in his opinion most of them are intended for political effect and would mean nothing in aiding Ireland to obtain independence, but might affect relations between this country and Great Britain.

In the hope of obtaining support in his position, Mr. Porter wrote Secretary Colby that he desired his opinion on the three Irish resolutions pending before the committee.

Mr. Colby's response follows:

"May 22, 1920.

"My Dear Mr. Porter:

"I am in receipt this morning of your letter, dated May 20, in which you speak of inclosing three resolutions relating to the Irish question, which I understand are before your committee for action. The resolutions referred to did not accompany your letter. I would like to receive them at your convenience, although I am familiar with the general object of their purport.

"It seems hardly proper for me to attempt to guide the action of your committee by an expression of opinion of legislation which is at this stage.

"I am certain that I should not venture to do so or to influence you, either in my reply to your letter or by personal appearance before your committee, were I in a position this morning to accept your invitation to the meeting of your committee. The department is in receipt of important despatches which require my instant attention, and I am regretfully obliged to ask the indulgence of your committee in not attending its session, which it would give me much pleasure to do.

"I may say this, however, in my reply to your inquiry of a day or two ago, that there are no facts in connection with our foreign relations which should deter your committee from any action which is dictated by good judgment and which it may feel conscientiously impelled to take.

"Yours very sincerely,

"BAINBRIDGE COLBY."

Representative H. D. Flood, ranking Democratic member of the committee, moved that the committee take up the various resolutions and continue the session until they were disposed of by favorable or unfavorable report, but on motion of Representative Dickinson the committee adjourned to consider the resolutions next Thursday.

YOU can't expect Beaver Board results unless this trade-mark is on the back of the board you buy.

Beaver Board has endless uses about the farm. It's just the thing to line your work shop and it's even better for the building of a beautiful new room in some waste space in the house.

In a new booklet, "Building More Comfort into the Farm Home," you'll find many suggestions. It's free, together with an actual piece of Beaver Board, if you ask us.

Sale Of Shanghai Cotton Company Is Confirmed

Resolutions covering the transfer of The Shanghai Cotton Manufacturing Company to a Japanese company—a development made necessary by the recent British Order in Council—were confirmed yesterday at an extraordinary general meeting at the company's head office 49 Szechuen Road following a previous meeting at which preliminary action was taken on the resolutions.

Yesterday's meeting was called by the liquidators, Messrs. Norman Thomson and Edward S. Wilkinson. The name of the company that is to take over the property is The Shanghai Boshoku Kabushiki Kwaisha, which is a literal translation into Japanese of "The Shanghai Cotton Manufacturing Company, Limited."

THE RESOLUTIONS

The resolutions that were confirmed yesterday were as follows:

1.—That it is desirable that the Company's property and undertaking should pursuant and subject to the provisions of Section 185 of the Companies Ordinance (Hongkong) 1911 be transferred to a new Japanese Company upon the terms and subject to the conditions contained in the draft agreement submitted to this meeting and expressed to be made between the Company and its liquidators of the first part, Michio Nodaira, Ichiro Morita, Kyosuke Otani, John Prentice, Williamson John Norman Dyer and Henry Ernest Morriss of the second part and Keitaro Kuroda as trustee for the new Company to be formed of the third part.

2.—That the liquidators be and they are authorised to promote or concur in the promotion under Japanese law of a new Company to be named The Shanghai Boshoku Kabushiki Kwaisha with Articles of Association which have already been prepared with the privity and approval of the Liquidators of this Company.

3.—That the Liquidators be and they are hereby authorised to execute the said agreement and to take all such steps and to do all such things as they shall deem necessary or expedient to complete the transfer of the business of the Company to such new Company upon terms contained in the said agreement with such (if any) modifications as they may think expedient.

Shanghai Horse Bazaar Meeting

An extraordinary general meeting of the Shanghai Horse Bazaar and Motor Co., Ltd. took place at the company's office yesterday afternoon. Mr. F. Ayscough, director, occupied the chair, supported by Dr. S. W. Pratt, secretary.

The notice convening the meeting having been read the chairman said:

Gentlemen—With regard to the first resolution, I must point out that the company had formerly four directors, but that when the late Mr. J. Tulloch ceased to act as a director in 1905 no steps were taken to fill the vacancy created and since then there have been only three directors. As a result it sometimes happens, especially in the summer, that it is impossible to obtain a quorum for a directors' meeting, and the board thinks it desirable generally that there should be one more director. The power of appointment is in the shareholders.

With regard to the second resolution, your directors are advised that there was an irregularity in the appointment made at the last annual meeting of Messrs. Lowe Bingham and Matthews to be auditors of the company, and that such appointment was, from a legal point of view, invalid; it is to rectify this that the resolution is proposed.

The irregularity arose in this manner: The directors in 1906 made an agreement with Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews that this firm should from time to time supervise the keeping of the company's accounts receiving therefor the annual fee of Tls. 900.

At the time mentioned Mr. Anderson of the North China Insurance Co., was the company's auditor but was upon his retirement replaced by Mr. Mackay of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., who, in turn, had to decline reappointment owing to pressure of work.

The accounts for the year 1909 were audited by Mr. Eric M. Ross, C.A., of Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews; Mr. Ross remained the auditor of the company until 1916 when, at the general meeting of shareholders, it was proposed by the directors and sanctioned by the shareholders that owing to the absence of Mr. Ross, Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be appointed the company's auditors.

The arrangement was separate from and additional to their appointment as auditors at an annual fee of Tls. 300. The directors' object was of course, to ensure the greatest possible care and accuracy in the keeping of the company's accounts, but the company's solicitors have advised that owing to the provisions of the company's articles and the Hongkong Ordinances, Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews cannot be engaged to supervise accounts and also be appointed auditors to examine and report on those accounts. As the firm cannot act as both supervisors and auditors, the directors prefer to retain their services as auditors and have put the position before them with this suggestion. Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews reply that they are willing to act as auditors at an annual fee of Tls. 750.

This gentlemen, is all that I have to say, but if any shareholder wishes any further information with regard to the two resolutions now to be put before the meeting, I shall be glad to answer to the best of ability.

There being no questions the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

That Mr. Robert Inglis Fearon be and he is hereby appointed a director of the company in addition to the existing directors: Proposed by the chairman, and seconded by Mr. W. G. Pirie.

That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be and they are hereby appointed auditors of the company: Proposed by the chairman, and seconded by Mr. W. H. Beatty.

Coal Market

In their report dated July 15, Messrs. Wheelock and Co. write as follows:

Japan Coal:—Our local market remains very quiet and the Silk Filatures have not yet opened negotiations so that there has been practically no new business done.

Referring to the remarks in our last issue on the inquiries from Europe for supplies of Japan or China coal—so far nothing has come about but negotiations are still proceeding, the main stumbling block seems to be the difficulty of securing suitable tonnage at reasonable rates.

Fushun Coal:—The only item of news on this market is the fixture recently of two shiploads for over-seas, one load going to Java and one to Port Said.

Kaiping Coal:—Prices remain firm there being a big demand for better grades generally and inquiries for shipments to Europe and America have not been entertained.

Old London Merchant Wins In Long Strike

Flatly Refuses To Reinstate Girls And Oxford Street Pickets Are Withdrawn

London, June 2.—John Lewis, 84 years old, Oxford Street drygoods merchant, has won his strike. Six weeks ago 400 of his salespeople went out just as he was starting a big silk sale, alleging many grievances, such as arbitrary dismissals and rules against leaving the store during the dinner hour. Today the striker's withdrew their pickets and announced the contest over, but declared not one would take his old job again.

They did this because they had to. In spite of much newspaper support at first the public interest in the strike had languished. Practically all departments of the store had been open and its counters have been crowded with customers even if the staff of salesgirls was short. There was talk of the transport workers helping the strikers by refusing to deliver goods at the store, but this seems not to have materialised on account of the trade union leaders fearing to precipitate a first-class row over "direct action" in such a trivial dispute. Finally, old "Minister John" yesterday declined absolutely to see a deputation seeking a general reinstatement of the strikers. A curious point about the dispute has been the fact that with few exceptions the striking salesgirls have continued to lodge free of expense at the firm's dormitories without molestation.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Co. write as follows in their report dated July 15:

The situation in our Outward Freight markets is as follows:

To United Kingdom and Continent:—This berth remains in the same lifeless condition referred to in our last issue and at the moment there is no sign of any improvement. The requirements of flour and bean shippers for prompt loading seem to be satisfied and there are practically no enquiries for space for ordinary general cargo.

To United States via Pacific and via Panama and Suez: These berths remain unchanged since last writing as far as cargo is concerned and except for a slight movement in tea and silk via the Pacific, the season for which is just commencing, there is not much cargo offering: the only shipping item of interest is the news that the s.s. Celtic Prince will load at Hankow direct for New York via Suez sailing early in September.

Coastwise:—Things have improved slightly on our Northern market since last writing and some inquiry has sprung up from Newchwang to the South. In other directions the markets are still in a lifeless condition.

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

We have to report a quiet week with very few Bills offering and little demand. Rates closed at 5/2 for T.T. and 5/6½ 4 months credits. Taels T.T. on Shanghai. The Chinese market was easy and fell to 96.55 nominal. Foreign Banks sold at 96.75. Dollars. The market eased to 69.975-70.75 buyers and sellers. Chinese Market, and closed steady. Interest. Money is easy at 5 percent. Changsha Exchange. Nominal.

IMPORTS

The market remains the same as last reported.

EXPORTS

There is practically no change to report. Business remains difficult and dull, despite a slightly steadier exchange. The demand from Europe is very spasmodic, but looks like improving in the near future. The American market is lifeless. There are a few offers of Sesamum Seed for forward delivery in the market and we can only depreciate the practice of offering crops almost before they are sown. It was thought that the War had put an end to this habit, but it seems impossible to bring Dealers, Exporters and buyers into line.

PET LION AGITATES HOTEL

Order for 15-Pound Steak Reveals His Presence

New York, May 26.—Jim, a full grown, bushy-haired lion of the breed that is often seen stalking majestically across the movie screen in jungle scenes, caused more commotion and excitement yesterday in the Hotel Rolleclaire, Seventy-seventh Street and Broadway, where he is sharing a suite of rooms on the first floor with his owner, than that hostelry ever dreamed of experiencing. Jim is the pet of Thomas R. Zann, a retired lumber merchant of Leavenworth, Wash., and both are on their way to Africa.

Jim made his début in the Belleclaire Saturday afternoon in a large canvas-covered case through an open window. The management thought the case contained a piano until yesterday morning, when Mr. Zann called up the clerk and asked that fifteen pounds of raw beefsteak, "the best in the house," be sent up immediately.

Albert Flather, the manager, hurried upstairs to see what sort of a guest wanted fifteen pounds of raw beefsteak for breakfast. He rang the bell and the door of Mr. Zann's room was thrown open. On his haunches in the middle of the floor, his mouth open, disclosing a set of long sharp teeth, was a lion. Flather jumped back out of the room and slammed the door.

"Come in," said Mr. Zann. "Jim won't hurt you."

Flather cautiously opened the door and peeking in.

"Come in. He's been my pet for the last four years. I've had him since he was three days old," said Mr. Zann.

"You will have to get him out of here," the manager declared, ready to bolt for the stairs.

Zann protested, saying Jim was only his pet. The manager explained that lions did not come under the category of pets in hotel.

"Well," Zann said, "if you put Jim out you'll have to put me out. Meanwhile Jim is hungry. Will you send up the beefsteak?"

A trembling waiter brought the beefsteak and Jim was fed.

In the meantime the manager hurried to the West Sixty-ninth Street station, where he told Sergeant John Foster about the lion. Patrolman John Burns was sent to investigate. He found the lobby filled with anxious guests.

The patrolman told Zann he would have to get Jim out of the hotel and must have a permit from the Board of Health to keep him in this city. Zann finally ordered Jim into the big case, which was locked.

Putting Them In The Same Boat

THE Allies are again laying the law down to the people of Russia. Having armed, officered and trained the Polish army and then despatched it against the Russians, the Allies, now that the Poles are being defeated, have notified the Russians to call a halt. They have plainly warned them. If the Russians attempt to invade Poland they will bring down upon their heads the wrath of the Allies.

But why didn't the Allies stop the Poles when the latter started their invasion of Russia? The boundaries of Poland had been fixed in the Peace Treaty and so long as the Peace Treaty remained intact, Poland could not enlarge her domain. Yet she was not only permitted to begin an offensive against Russia which was designed to slice off hundreds of thousands of square miles of Russian territory but she was supported both before and after the launching of that campaign.

And this campaign was directed against a people who fought for the Allies until August, 1917, and who ever since the Armistice have been trying to make peace with the Allies.

What have the Russians done to the Allies that they should be harassed and persecuted as they have been? It is true that the Allies do not like the form of the Russian Government. But does that excuse them? Have they any right to dictate to Russia what form of Government she shall adopt? We think not. We think that Russia is entitled to have any form of government that the majority of the Russians want and there is no longer any doubt that the majority desires to give Bolshevism a thorough trial. The sacrifices they have made to that end leave no doubt of it.

And now the Allies are telling the Russians that they must not invade Poland. They are told that if they disregard the Allied warning the Allies will declare war on them.

The Allies are in fact bringing about a situation which may force the Russians into the German camp. The other day a message from the Allied conference at Spa told of the discovery of German plans to declare war on Poland. The Poles already are at war with the Bolshevists. If the Germans should attack them in the rear they would be finished. But what would happen then? The Germans and the Bolshevists would find that their interests were identical. Both are striving to escape from the Allied yoke. The Russians have right and justice on their side; the Germans have not. But so far as the Allies are concerned they are both in the same boat—the Allies have put them in the same boat. And having put them there, the Allies probably will soon discover with a deep sense of surprise and shock that the Russians and Germans are rocking the boat in unison.

Business Fast Nearing Status Of Exact Science

(New York World)

Business is fast approaching the status of an exact science, and this prospect is in no way due to the so-called business or commercial colleges or the general correspondence schools that specialise in long-distance advice. It rests on the more solid foundation of training within an industry or in an office, in which the young wish to learn with reference to a career and the instructors are employes who have been trained while earning their living and who have aptitude in showing newcomers how to become efficient in the shop or office in which they work for wages.

This form of training had been tried, in desultory fashion, for some years. Its growth led to meetings of those concerned for comparison of experiences and for the interchange of suggestion, until finally there was organised the National Association of Corporation Schools. That co-operative effort moved so slowly that it was almost unnoticed, but it moved always forward, and the eighth annual convention, just held in this city, proved not only the utility but also the scope of the undertaking thus fostered by the heads of some of the largest corporations in the country. Such subjects as "Unskilled Labor and Americanisation," "Skilled and Semi-Skilled Labor," and "Office Work Training" were treated in pamphlet reports, which were concisely presented and contained the results of the latest practical studies of corporation schools.

As an index to the expert character of the work it may be said that the Committee on Unskilled Labor and Americanisation was composed of J. E. Banks of the American Bridge Company, C. S. Coler of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, C. S. Davison of the International Harvester Company, George B Fout of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, Miss Mary B. Gilson of the Joseph and Feiss Company of Cleveland, Miss Margaret Reisch of the American Rolling Mill Company, S. H. Renton of the American Hard Rubber Company, B. N. Rohrer of the B. F. Goodrich Company, Oscar C. Short of Thomas Maddock's Sons Company of Trenton, G. Guy Via of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, and Alfred H. Wyman of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Corporations represented on the other committees were the H. J. Heinz Company, the A. M. Byers Company of Pittsburgh, the Submarine Boat Corporation, the Habirshaw Electric Cable Company of Yonkers, the American Rolling Mill Company, the New York Edison Company, the Warner and Swasey Company of Cleveland, R. H. Macy and Co., the Prudential Insurance Company, Swift and Co., the General Electric Company, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company, the Packard Motor Car Company, William H. Luden of Reading, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, Montgomery, Ward and Co., Chicago, the National Cash Register Company, the Dennison Manufacturing Company and the Bridgeport Brass Company.

Dealing with unskilled labor and Americanisation, the committee in charge said plans for teaching English to the foreign-born and other related work were in operation or under development in many of the member corporations, and the personnal relations of the foreign-born and the negro were coming rapidly to a fair place in industrial consideration. Government, national, State and urban agencies were also rapidly coming into position to teach English to the foreign-born. In Akron, O., almost the entire work is in the hands of the public school authorities and is fostered and in part financed by the industries in unison and in care of a director of long industrial experience.

"Encouragement of naturalisation," the report said, "is now part of company relation to foreign-born employes. Some would discriminate against the employment of aliens, and others question the expediency of their promotion in position. The bringing of a foreign-born man, by education and fair treatment, to that state of mind in which he seeks citizenship is surely a better process in Americanisation than any result which comes from unfair discrimination in employment. An alien-born who does not care ever to become a citizen of this country is, unless there be excusing circumstances, of doubtful value and safety in America at all.

"We are in need of a general text-book in English for the foreign-born and negro; no satisfactory book has yet been published. An additional pamphlet for school use should be prepared by each company, dealing with management, machinery, equipment, raw material, processes and products. Such a book is now in print by one of our members and several companies have prepared lesson leaves which may be issued in book form. Appropriate books are needed also in civics, arithmetic and elementary economics. Special subjects pertaining directly to an industry should always be taught by experienced employes, well acquainted with the company and infused with a spirit of understanding and loyalty toward it."

The remainder of the report treats in detail of various civic agencies that are assisting in the problem of fostering the study of English as a means of industrial efficiency, together with matters of housing, school and mechanical training, church development, welfare work and social relations, all serving to inculcate general betterment and love of American institutions the basic idea being that the substantial progression of industry may best be furthered by the individual welfare, the intelligence and the National loyalty of the workers.

In the matter of skilled and semi-skilled labor, the committee sent queries to more than 100 companies. Replies analysed in the report show that one of the most pressing problems is the training of men by intensive methods, in order to stabilise industry workers whose wartime jobs entailed a widespread tendency to shift from one employment to another. The report presents both sides of the shop-training argument and advises that the industries definitely establish programs of specific aims and desired results, and then assign trainers to take care of the learners and to cultivate in them real interest in the plant, by impressing them that corporate and individual welfare are bound up in the same activities. Similar survey of the field by the committee assigned to report on office work training, convinced the committee that supervision of the work of the young by elders in an office may be profitably supplemented by classroom instruction, conferences, lectures, reading courses and correspondence, all out of the time and at the cost of employers.

Babylon's Employment Agencies

The idea of an employment agency is not particularly new. In fact, it appears to be quite ancient. Among the records found in the ruins of Senkerch (the ancient Larsa) are small clay lumps indicating that the temple of Larsa found employment for laborers and for women servents.

Hundreds of bricks from the temple archives of Larsa show that this, like the temples of other ancient Babylonian and Sumerian cities, was the center from which radiated the life of the city, and it was, too, at once a government and a corporation to which were relegated singular powers and privileges.

The small clay lumps referred to were labels used by the temple in various ways—as labels in the temple storehouse, as tags for animals and men, as address slips on packages delivered. These lumps were undried and unbaked while they were being used as tags; they were burnt before going into the archives as records. This much has been determined by archaeologists from a study of the lumps themselves. Bits of cord still adhere to some of the clay, the cord having passed, apparently, through holes made for it in the lump. In this way, the clay had been tied to the object labeled. The directions on a tag are fainter than the receipted signature and seal, which were affixed later and nearer the time of baking.

One of these clay lump records is a tag for wages to be paid to a workman sent out by the temple—so many hours, so many days, at so much per day, and the payment due him at the end of his service.

Another clay lump in the Yale collection records the receipt of a slave from one person to another, and so probably was the tag attached to the slave thus transferred.

Archaeologists have built a theory of the methods of the temple as employment agent. When laborers and servants were sent out by the temple to their temporary employers outside, each laborer or servant bore a clay lump tied around his neck (presumably), and this lump cuneiformed stated the sum he was to receive and the length of the proposed service. At the end of his service the tag was receipted by the temporary employer, who also stamped it with his seal.

Thereafter the laborer, apparently satisfied, returned to the temple employment office to report for other duty, and the small clay record was taken from him, inspected, verified, stamped by one of the temple scribes, and then filed away—to be referred to, probably, at some later date, when the temple was having labor trouble!

The big, soft-hearted, hard-swearing sailor, Lord Fisher, has made his last journey to a land where capital ships, submarines and dreadnoughts are unknown. He lived for the Navy, that we might live.

The local branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is asking for more subscribers, and points out that nowhere in the world can the S.P.C.A. be of more use than in China—and that reminds me:

An old lady wrote to the S.P.C.A. to protest against the cruel practice of scratching horses. She called special attention to a reference in the morning paper saying that three horses had been scratched on the day of the race—a most cruel and barbarous thing to do. So it is to the man who has backed the scratched gee-gees. But that does not excuse any of us from sending the two dollars to Mr. K. E. Newman and becoming members of a worthy society.

Play-actors give more and get less than any other class of people who stand in shoes. Very, very few of them acquire a competence.

Their pockets are open top and bottom, and their hands go out to all God's creatures in a desire to benefit. They live in their emotions and steamer trunks, and they seldom have time to sit back, become blase and munch the peanuts of success, or sip the sundae that tends to flatulence.

They are all children—they never grow up. The gods must love them for they die young, no matter how long they live.

They play for us, and just a little appreciation on our part fills their cup to the brim. Let us always remember that if they sometimes give us rotten plays, the plays were written by rotten playwrights to please a rotten public.

False Acute Indigestion

What is commonly called acute indigestion is, according to Dr. Beverley Robinson of New York, primarily an overstrained, weakened heart, already diseased, or a cerebral hemorrhage. Such cases he treats with aromatic spirits of ammonia, having first placed a one-minim hypodermic tablet of strophanthus under the tongue to dissolve.

Helmets Pave A Street

Tons of thousands of German helmets that had accumulated at a dump for captured war material in England have been put to use in paving a street. The helmets were laid close together by hand and a tractor was driven over them back and forth until all were firmly embedded. The result is like a cobblestone pavement.

Fantastic Facts In Plain Business

Subtleties Of Human Nature In Everyday Commercial Transactions Furnish More Oddities Than Adventure Or Fiction

BY F. F. WETMORE

Curious facts have always stood first among things beguiling. Here is a curious fact about curious facts: Merchants, clerical workers, salesmen and other people attached to the army of commerce are accustomed to find their marvels in reports of the latest profundities of science, in the travelers' stories set far in the outlands, in the fantasies of fictionists, when some of the most curious facts to be told are found in the business of running a store, of selling shoes, of dressing show windows. This is the most striking oddity to be found in a recent collection of addition, an ultra-modern treatise on the subtleties of commerce, "Human Nature in Business," by Fred C. Kelly (G. Putnam & Sons). The ancient thesis is upheld, that the most unheard of things are to be found at home.

Restaurant men know that appetites are not the same on a dark gloomy day as on a day that is bright and cheerful. The surprising thing is that people eat most on the day that is dark and dismal. On a cloudy day people just sit and eat.

Dentists know that people are slow to make and quick to break appointments on cloudy days. A cloudy day is depressing and patients lack the nerve to face the ordeal.

But bad weather helps the physicians. Lowered spirits make people think they need the doctor.

Rainy days boost the mail order business because country people, obliged to remain indoors, drive away dull care by reading mail order catalogues.

Department store business is seriously hurt by rain in the forenoon, but rain in the early afternoon is a great help. Women refrain from starting on shopping tours in the first instance, in the second they are compelled to remain in the store, and they shop some more.

Most lines of business, however, bloom with sunshine. Architects, for instance, find that few people come in on gloomy days. It takes sunshine to fire the owner of a piece of ground with visions of a beautiful house standing thereon.

Still, a rainy June is highly profitable to a big awning concern, because of the extra number of awnings that must be erected for June weddings.

On the morning of Tuesday, April 3, 1917, men smoked more cigars than usual. The day was a record-breaker for cigar sales all over the country. This was all the more surprising, because Tuesday ordinarily is the dullest day in the week for cigar sales. Men stock up Saturday for over Sunday, and replenish their stock again on Monday morning. This usually carries them over Tuesday. On Tuesday, April 3, 1917, more cigars were sold in New York City than on any other Tuesday in the city's history. Why?

On the night previous the President of the United States had appeared before Congress, and asked for a declaration of war against Germany. When people read the papers the next morning, it made them extremely thoughtful. Men were inclined to gather and talk—and smoke.

A big parade on the main street of a town always reduces cigar sales that day. Men get interested in the goings on and forget to smoke.

Circus men know that circus crowds will always contain a definite proportion of "walkaways," people who forget their change at the ticket window. In an average circus crowd they are worth about twenty dollars to the ticket seller. As the crowd grows the money thus left becomes larger at an increasing rate—because people are more tense in a big crowd, and are more likely to be forgetful.

An amusing thing about a circus crowd is this: Nine out of every ten persons who talk to a circus man on the show grounds ask him exactly the same question: "Where do you go from here?" It is never "What is your next town?" or the question in any other wording, but always and precisely "Where do you go from here?"

The wind counts: A windy day in New York City costs a great cigar concern about four thousand dollars. Many men do their smoking along the street, and it is not pleasant to smoke in a high wind.

More candy and soda are sold at 3 o'clock in the afternoon than at any other time of the day. The next best hour is 8 o'clock in the evening. Five women buy soda water to every four men. Women buy candy oftener than men, but men buy more at a time, so the sexes average equal as candy purchasers.

Hot weather is good for ice cream and soda sales, but only to a certain point. When the temperature goes above a certain figure, sales all off. The weather is too hot for the exertion of walking to a soda fountain. From 72 to 90 degrees F. seems to be the best for soda sales.

FOLLOWING THE CROWD

The shady side of the street is the busy side. It gets the greatest amount of pedestrain traffic. This is true not only in summer, but also in winter, when the sunlight might seem altogether acceptable. But the shade in the winter tends to prevent thawing, and the shady side is less slushy. It is the dry side.

The shady side of the street will, in general, average 24 per-cent over the sunny side, so far as traffic is concerned.

A curious oddity of traffic on Fifth Avenue, New York City, is that between 42d and 45th Streets the crowd on the east side of the street contains more men than women, and on the west side more women than men. There seems no plausible explanation for this.

There is a street in Boston that is often so crowded on one side as to be almost impassable on that side, while the other side is wellnigh deserted.

HABITS OF THE SHOPPER

The manager of the musical department of a big store says that most violin and guitar strings are sold on Saturday—for use on Sunday, obviously. But for some reason music teachers buy most of their sheet music on Monday.

Whenever a grown man buys a mouth organ, jewsharp, kazoo or tin fife, he almost invariably makes it a point to say that it is for his little boy, or somebody else.

A father who says not a word about paying $250 for a piano for his daughter, will dicker a long time over buying a violin for his son.

A large chain drug store corporation determined to investigate women's perfumery tastes. By offering free samples and talking to the women who accepted them, they learned that one woman out of ten does not like perfume at all. One-fourth of all women customers desire a strong aromatic variety. Two-thirds want a scent that is very mild and delicate. These proportions were practically the same for Broadway stores and stores out in Iowa.

A number of years ago, when William Gillette was playing in "Sherlock Holmes," there was an increase in the sales of dressing gowns in every town where he appeared. The reason was that in one scene the great detective wore a dressing gown, and many men who went to see the play were filled with the idea of how clever and effective they themselves would look if they were to loll about in thoughtful, graceful attitudes, clad in a robe such as the great Holmes wore.

A grocer tells that when the famous "Hand him a lemon" joke was going around, there was a noticeable falling off in lemon sales.

Department store keepers were perturbed when people began wearing the same weight of underwear all year around. But soon the merchants found that the change was in reality a great benefit for them. It greatly increased the total sale of underwear. There is small romance in a set of plain, unfrilled, old fashioned woollen underwear; but the woman who sits before her dressing table preening herself is likely to feel pleased with her garments decked with laces and frills. And so long as the effect is gratifying to the eye, she proved willing to spend twice as much as she formerly did for articles that merely kept her warm.

Kelly's Trombone

(A reminiscence of Seicheprey)

Dan Kelly was a private plain,
Built on the doughboy plan.
Who strove to enter music's fane
With fervor and elan.
His soul attuned to art alone,
Above gas, bombs and guns,
He longed to play a slide trombone
Instead of smiting Huns.

His comrades at the close of day
Experienced no joy
When Kelly sought to blast his way
Through Moore's "The Minstrel Boy."
Said Cassidy, to hurt his pride,
"H's got half way, ohone!
Each tune he pushes on the slide
He surely pulls a bone."
One eve in his artistic trance
The foe made sudden try
So swift that Kelly had no chance
To lay his treasure by.
His comrades all went rushing past—
No need to give command—
But Daniel was by no means last
His instrument in hand.

And when the little scrap was done
And Heinie on his way,
Said Cassidy, "Well played, me son!
This much I've got to say:
Yure technique surely is immense!
I niver knew before
Ye played that harn so dommed intense.
I saw ye smash a score!"
"Artistic timperamint, ahoy!"
Says he, "come, here's yure son!
Go murdher now the Soldier Boy
The way ye did the Hun!"
But pain and anguish mark'd Dan's brow;
He sadly shook his head.
"Oi cannot play the old songs now,
'Tis bust to bits," he said.

But now, alas! his comrades learn
His fears were unfulfilled.
His weapon did he twist and turn
And hammer and rebuild.
Back o'er the foam he fetched his toy
And on post nights they hear
The shrill sighs of the Minstrel Boy
Pierce shuddering each ear!

New Atoms Born Every Minute

Everything in the world, everything in the universe, is made up of atoms, and until recently it was believed that atoms were immutable; now, however, it is known that new atoms are being born every minute. Rogers D. Rusk, M. A., writing in Popular Mechanics, relates some interesting facts about atoms and points out some fascinating possibilities arising out of the latest discoveries about them.

"There are," he says, "about ninety different kinds of atoms, correaponding to the elements of which all other substances are made, and all atoms contain equal amounts of positive and negative electricity. Just as solar systems consist of planets revolving about a central sun and are held together by the force of gravitation, so do atoms consist of negative electrical charges, revolving around a central, positively charged nucleus, held together by the forces of electrical attraction.

"The smallest atom known is the atom of hydrogen gas, and each of these atoms has but one negative electrical charge, or electron, revolving about the nucleus. The heaviest atom is uranium, and it contains 92 of these electrons. Now an atom of this kind is crowded with electrons, and pretty soon something happens. Either a collision takes place or some other strain causes the nucleus to give way and expel a little particle of matter. What this particle of matter is no one knows, except that it is charged with positive electricity, but after its speed has slowed down it picks up electrons from the air and forms an atom itself, which has been proved to be helium gas.

"Radium and other heavy, over-crowded atoms act the same way; in fact, it is this continual and intense disintegrating action in radium which we call radioactivity. In all cases where any material part of the nucleus is expelled the same thing happens, and helium atoms are born. From some other substances it is possible to expel particles which grow into hydrogen atoms, but such particles always produce either hydrogen or helium.

"As radioactive substances are present in greater or less quantities throughout the earth, it is possible that all the hydrogen and helium gas in the air and earth are formed in this way. And so it is in the universe about us. Creation is going on all the time; heavy atoms disintegrate and other atoms grow from them, while old worlds die and new ones are born.

"Helium atoms are now produced in a variety of ways, not only in radioactive substances, but in an electric spark and by the passage of radium rays through gas. Just recently Sir Ernest Rutherford announced that, by this latter method, he had been able to drive out both hydrogen and helium from atoms of nitrogen gas, but not from carbon or oxygen.

"As is well known, if the weight of a hydrogen atom is taken as unity, a helium atom is found to weigh approximately four. Now a carbon atom weighs 12, and hence can be made up of three helium particles. So also can an oxygen atom weighing 15 be made up of four particles. A nitrogen atom weighing 14, however, cannot be made up of helium alone, but can be composed of three helium and two hydrogen particles.

"As can be seen from the above, adding one helium particle to an atom of carbon ought to produce oxygen if the union could be effected. Similarly, adding a helium particle to an atom of iridium, weighing 193, should produce gold, whose weight is 197. Subtracting the same amount from mercury would also leave gold. If this becomes possible in the future, then the dreams of the alchemists will be more than realised, for we may turn lead or any other element into anything we please.

"Before this may be done we must learn more about the inside of an atom. As a hydrogen atom never carries more than a single electrical charge, it is represented diagrammatically by a central nucleus of positively charged matter with a minute electron revolving about it. As a helium atom weighs four times as much, it obviously might be composed of four hydrogen particles, but as it has never been broken up into hydrogen particles it must be held together by usual forces. For this reason and because helium never carries more than two charges of electricity, only two detachable electrons are placed in the outer ring; the other two are supposed to hold the four positive particles of the nucleus together by their attraction.

"The relative smallness of the electrons compared with the atoms themselves has been shown by Rutherford, who estimates that a helium atom may be shot through a thousand other atoms without hitting anything, just as a comet may shoot through our own solar system without striking a planet. This is possible only because the electrical charges are so small that a billion of them would only fill a minute space in the atom. Small as the particles are, however, if only a few are added or substracted, a new atom is born."

Cold Facts About Refrigerators

Are you running your refrigerator with the maximum of efficiency and the minimum of waste? Are you doing this with a thorough knowledge of the principles of refrigeration, or are you following slipshod methods and wondering why your ice melts so rapidly, why eggs spoil and why the butter is so soft?

Many people believe that the place nearest the ice in a refrigerator is the coolest. This is not true. The coldest place is at the bottom of the refrigerator. Hot air rises, and air that is not being constantly purified by circulation around the blocks of ice soon becomes unfit to come in contact with food. When the warm air in the refrigerator rises, it carries with it impurities and moisture absorbed from the surface of the food, and which, if allowed to remain in the air, spoil food. The air, which is warmed by passing over the food, comes in contact with the ice where the moisture is condensed upon the surface and the impurities are carried off by the melting ice. The air is thus dried, cooled, and purified.

Then the cooled air immediately descends to gather up more moisture and impurities and thus the process is repeated continually. Anything placed directly on or around the ice tends to interfere with the circulation of the air.

You may have been told that wrapping your ice in newspapers tends to keep it from melting. You will note that this practice is bad because it prevents the free circulation of air around the ice, and that in turn prevents the purification of the air. The whole surface of the ice is needed to purify the air properly.

In addition to the necessity of having a circulation of cold, dry air, it is important that, as near as possible, a uniform temperature be maintained. For this reason, refrigerator doors should fit tight, be closed tight, and not opened more often than is positively necessary, because every time the doors are opened the cold air pours out and the warm air that takes its place is cooled at the expense of the ice.

It is advisable to allow heated food to cool off before placing it in the refrigerator. If put in warm, it raises the temperature of the refrigerator higher than it should go and melts the ice unnecessarily.

The trap door through which the meltage of the ice flows off should be kept closed, otherwise it lets in a constant stream of warm air.

A refrigerator should be kept scrupulously clean. It should be wiped out daily with a dry cloth, and once a week should be thoroughly cleaned with a solution of bicarbonate of soda and cold water. Hot water should not be used in washing out a refrigerator as it unnecessarily raises the temperature.

Efficiency Greatest At 11 a.m.

It is remarkable to what extent a person's general efficiency varies with the time of day, to say nothing of the weather. One of the most recent studies of this was made by Dr. Arthur J. Gates, now in charge of the psychological laboratory at Teacher's College, New York, then of the University of California. He took 155 members of a class in elementary psychology and tested them for three full days.

Before beginning the tests he ascertained the habits of life of each student, for he recognised that these have an important bearing on the efficiency at different hours of the day. He found that they rose and retired at widely differing hours, the favorite rising hour being 7 and the favorite retiring hour from 10.30 to 11, though some rose at 5 and went to bed at 8.30, while others rose at 8 and went to bed at midnight. The favorite hours for study were around 8 and 9 a. m., though many preferred the late evening.

The tests were given every day at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. and at 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 p.m. The first was for auditory memory. This consisted in repeating a series of digits, beginning with 9 6 2 7 and ending with 6 2 8 1 9 4 3 5 7 2 8 3, read aloud to them at a certain speed. This showed the greatest efficiency at 11 a.m., a gradual falling off till 2 p.m., a marked improvement at 3 p.m., followed by a decline till 5 p.m.

The second test, for visual memory, consisted in repeating a similar but different series of digits after these had been exposed before their eyes. The greatest efficiency was at 4 p.m., though results at 10 and 11 a.m. were almost equal to it. The poorest hour was 1 p.m.

For a test in rapidity of learning, nine digits each accompanied by a simple symbol, were shown, and the students were asked to substitute the correct figures for the symbols, which were among 250 printed on a sheet of paper. Efficiency increased until 10 a.m., fell slightly at 11, fell much further at 1, rose considerably at 2 and continued with slight change till 4, after which there was a sharp falling off.

The fourth test was ability to recognise quickly geometrical figures when shown these mixed up with many others. Again there was a quick increase in efficiency till 10 a.m., with a falling off till 1, and in this case by far the highest efficiency was from 4 to 5 p.m.

Logical memory was the fifth test. In this a text containing twenty ideas was read to the students, who were asked to repeat as many of the ideas as they could remember. Result: Efficiency highest at 9.40 a.m., low at 1.40 p.m., gradual rise to 4.40 and sharp decline to 5.40 p.m.

Dr. Gates comments that this shows that many students select the wrong time for work, the conclusion being that one's subjective feelings with regard to the time of greatest efficiency are not reliable indications of real efficiency. The drop in efficiency following the midday meal is the most consistent aspect of all the tests that have been made. Hence he suggests the wisdom of an hour of recreation after luncheon.

HIS JOB TO KEEP ORDER

Regent Of Hungary Sure Oldtime Prosperity Will Return

Budapest, May 21 (Associated Press).—"Always do your best and never mind the rest," Admiral Horthy, Regent of Hungary, upon whom depends the immediate fate of the country, said to correspondent today.

"It is a case now of keeping order in Hungary," he continued. "This I am doing. Go wherever you like and you will find people working where there is work to be had, particularly among the agriculturists. Concerning White Terrorists, it is true there was a reaction against Communists, whether Jews or Hungarians. It is asking too much of human nature to expect our people not to commit some acts of violence against those who ruined our country. Gradually this spirit of violence has been controlled.

"Servia claims that we are preparing for a new war, asserting that we are importing arms. I only wish we might, as our small army needs them.

"Our money is slowly recovering its exchange value as order is established and as crops become better. I am sure our old time prosperity will return. Hungary is an excellent field for investment, as foreign capital is discovering already."

Asked when former King Charles would return, the Regent said:

"Upstairs there is the ancient crown of St. Stephen awaiting some wearer. There is an order not to speak about who the wearer will be until the country is in a better condition."
